

CAROL-LEE GREEN

I am originally from White Plains, NY. My first academic education included a B.S. degree in Special Education, after which I taught deaf children to speak and read lips. Thereafter I raised my family in New Jersey.

During my New Jersey years I was privileged (and blessed) to have studied, for many years, with the incomparable David Boyd, a well-known, highly regarded portrait artist, who taught me the joy of painting in oils. In addition, he recognized and encouraged my natural tendency to paint in the impressionist style.

. Subsequently I moved to Florida, where I earned my J.D. Law degree, and had a Law office, for many years, in Boca Raton, Florida. During that time, my painting, by necessity, took a backseat to my law career. But upon my retirement, I returned to my love of painting.

During my Florida years I studied at both the Boca Raton Museum of Art, and with Rose Nash, who opened, to me, a whole new world of textures available to me with acrylic paint. Consequently, for many years now, I have been painting primarily in acrylics. I tend to gravitate to painting women and children as my subjects, as seen in settings of both beaches and fields of flowers.
